

Multi-Genre project Reflection

For this project honestly I didn't revise a single thing. I know you may believe that to be a somewhat ignorant choice but I already have to code a whole new page into an already complicated website so I'd rather not have to do so much extra work (sorry in advance). What I learned about media literacy is how to properly determine the credibility of the site, and the people who wrote it. In the future I can use this to determine if procedures are correct in the field I chose to study in.
